The Partnership for Quality Medical Donations

*2017 PQMD Forum on Global Aid and Access for Health
April 3-6, London, UK*

Thank you, and welcome....

Dear Members, Guests, and Friends of PQMD,

Thank you all for joining us at our first Forum on Global Aid and Access for Health.

This program brings together high level, public, NGO and private-sector participants as well as representatives from a variety of global agencies. The Forum is designed to be a dialogue on strategies and solutions for multi-sector engagement, partnership development, and key success factors in addressing the role of donations in health and humanitarian crisis situations.

Over the next two days, we will explore a variety of new perspectives and approaches to some of the most challenging issues facing the global drug, device, and service donations community, affecting access to medicines, disease elimination and pandemic preparedness. We are looking forward to lively and educational discussions, and it is our hope that you will bring your voice and expertise to the dialogues whether you are sitting on a panel or in the audience.

The anticipated outcomes of the forum are a well-articulated set of issues and positions on the role of drug, device, and health systems support donations and anticipate the discussion to continue well past our meeting.

PQMD is honored to have you join us for this exciting event and we look forward to working with you on expanding the network of global professionals working in the area of donations that facilitate greater access to high quality, safe, and sustainable healthcare to those most in need around the world.

Sincerely,
Elizabeth "EJ" Ashbourne,
Executive Director, PQMD

Wednesday, April 5	Continued.....
12pm	Lunch	PQMD Members & Guests
1pm	Panel Discussion Group: Disease Elimination—“What Does it Take?” When an organization decides to embark on a prevention, elimination, and eradication effort, what decisions need to be made? What policies, resources, and partnerships need to be put in place to implement a program? What sort of metrics need to be developed to indicate results and impact? What is the role of external donors and agencies to ensure success?	Moderator – Mark Chataway - Baird’s CMC Panelists: Charlotte Watts - DFID Julie Jenson - Pfizer David Connor – Impact 2030 David Reddy – Medicines for Malaria Venture Mike Webb - Rotary International Joel Calmet – Sanofi
1pm	Panel Discussion Group: Disaster Resiliency – “Learning from Syria: Health, Crisis, Conflict and Displacement.” How are we best able to meet the needs of the long-term displaced? How can security and political complexities best be balanced against humanitarian priorities for neutral alleviation of suffering in this type of conflict? How can corporate medical donation practices be adapted to the collective circumstances faced by refugees and host communities? Based upon the range of experiences thus far within affected communities, response actors, corporations and government, what can we learn from Syria that will not only enable us to meet current humanitarian obligations but also to ensure that this crisis does not in turn become a fundamentally destabilizing crisis for the humanitarian system itself. Speakers on this panel will address different aspects of these questions in order to engage a broad conversation about the meaning of the Syrian crisis for the present and future of humanitarian assistance and global health philanthropy.
